Dear Senator Baker:

Connie and I were delighted with the President's choice of you as the Chief of Staff. Our hopes and prayers are with you and with the success of your mission. Our country is fortunate to have patriots such as you who are willing to make the sacrifices which are called for in times of crisis.

The entire Caracas Embassy staff joins me in wishing you all the best in this assignment which is so important to our country.

Best personal regards.

Sincerely yours,

Senator Baker,

It was such good news to HB learn that you have been chosen to help restore confidence in our president, our country — as well as the Republican party. My husband, Andy, I agreed long ago that Lamar had used extraordinary good judgment in choosing you as his 'mentor'. Your political astuteness combined with your commonsense and integrity make you a truly unique choice. Don't work too hard; you'll be in my — and other — prayers. When friends told me they prayed for Lamar. I always said — Keep it up! My best to you — save time for your family — and go to it! Sincerely

Dear Senator,

Congratulations on becoming Chief of Staff to Mr. Reagan. Sometimes things seem "Made to Order" or "Right place, Right time", and this is certainly one of those times. I think that when the situation was announced yesterday afternoon, many, many Americans feel like the "new Beginning" had arrived.

President Reagan is a superb leader and with you to help him, these next two years should be our greatest.

My 18 years in Washington managing Mr. Santo's office fortunately gave me the opportunity to meet with you from time to time concerning a variety of interests. I left our meetings on an "up" because of your easy practical way of discussing matters.

After 37 years with Mr. Santo, I retired 2 years ago. My legal training, my experience with the Hill and my enthusiasm for the President's success coupled with your new appointment move me to volunteer my assistance to your office should you see the need for a business liaison type. Congratulations and Warm Regards Sam

Dear Senator Baker:

I write, to make a suggestion, as an admirer and well-wisher who has twice voted for President Reagan and as a citizen who is delighted with your appointment and the promise it gives of getting the government back on track.

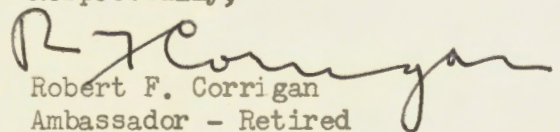

Even though my maternal grandmother's maiden name was Regan, giving me I guess as much Regan blood as your predecessor, I must confess I grew not to admire Donald Regan's style. On account of his name I wanted of course to give him the benefit of the doubt; but I began to become disenchanted early on because of the way he responded to questions about his switching jobs with James Baker. Instead of insisting it was a presidential decision, taken after due deliberation, he answered in effect it was entirely his idea, thereby contributing to the unfortunate image of a "hands off" president. Later I got sick of seeing Mr. Regan in practically every photograph with the President, the unseemly peak being one showing the Chief of Staff interjecting himself behind and between the two principals on a sofa at Reykjavik.

Incidentally I am a former deputy chief of protocol of the United States; and I can see no need for, and can provide arguments against, the Chief of Staff's being present on most ceremonial occasions involving the President. Being always there at such events tends to cast the President's chief adviser and manager in the role of a mere aide de camp, having in my opinion the consequence of degrading rather than enhancing his position.

Let the protocol people and such, and the secretary of state when indicated, accompany the President to greet and bid adieu to foreign heads of government; and let assistants and specialists, political and otherwise, travel with the chief executive on numerous trips. The Chief of Staff's time for sorting out and wrestling with substantive issues of towering importance is much too valuable to be wasted on unnecessary activities.

With every good wish for success to you and the President and with expressions of high regard,

Respectfully,

*Dear Ambassador
Corrigan*

Dear Senator:

May I take this opportunity to congratulate you on being appointed Chief of Staff for our outstanding President, Ronald Reagan. Having had the opportunity to follow your career, meet you personally and correspond with you on several occasions and being well acquainted with several people in this area who are close personal friends of yours, may I say that it is indeed encouraging to know that we have a man and a public servant of your caliber in such a crucial position.

I know that I need not tell you that, contrary to the persistent efforts of a major segment of the media, President Reagan enjoys the support and affection of a vast majority of the American people. I would just go on to say that it is my hope that, contrary to your announced intentions, you will find yourself squarely in the next race for the Republican nomination for the presidency. While I understand that you do not wish to utilize your important position as leverage for that undertaking, I would sincerely urge that you continue to evaluate where and how you may be of the greatest service to your nation. I am confident of what the answer to that question is and I wish you the very best and God speed as you do your part to keep our great country on a course of sound fiscal policy and related opportunities for all Americans.

Dear Senator Baker,

I have the honour to forward herewith, a message to your address from His Excellency Sahabzada Yaqub-Khan, Foreign Minister of Pakistan.

Begins:

It is with profound pleasure that I wish to extend to you my heartiest congratulations upon your appointment as Chief of Staff to the President of the United States. While amply demonstrating the sincerity of your purpose and conviction, your assumption of this office is also a fitting acknowledgement to your widely acclaimed expertise and bears testimony to the tremendous faith and confidence that you enjoy among your countrymen.

I would also like to express my immense gratitude and personal sense of admiration for the consistent understanding you have shown for my country and for the outstanding contributions you have made towards the consolidation of the cherished ties between our two countries. The people of Pakistan are indeed indebted to you for your support. Needless to say we will continue to count on your support, and I am confident that during your tenure in the White House these ties will be cemented further to mutual advantage.

Please accept, Mr. Senator, the assurances of my highest consideration.

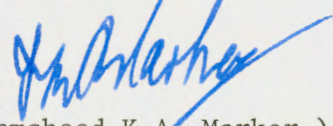

Ends.

Dear Howard:

Jane and I have just returned from a month's tour of South America and I hasten to get a note off to you congratulating you on your appointment as Chief of Staff by our President. We received the news through the newspapers in Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro and all of the articles were most complimentary and thought the President had made a "ten-strike."

Having known both your father and father-in-law, and being fully aware of the outstanding record that you made in the Senate of the United States, I could not be more pleased with the President's choice. I know the kind of a job that you are capable of doing. I do not know how this fits in with your long range plans but I am sure that you are making a real sacrifice to step into the breach at this time. I personally want to thank you on behalf of all the Republican Party and the people of the United States for making this sacrifice for the benefit of all of us.

God bless you and give you the strength and courage to carry out this most important job.

Dear Howard:

Let me add my voice to the many others who applaud your willingness to accept another assignment to serve the President and the country. I know I echo the sentiment of a great many of your friends and supporters in expressing my regret that this step will preclude your becoming an active candidate for the nomination next year. As in 1980, it appears that my candidate will not be among those who are in the field as the delegate selection process progresses.

It is reassuring, however, to know that the one who is best qualified to fill that office in 1989 will be helping to assure the success of this President who has done so much to give the nation a sense of pride, purpose and direction.

None of us can predict the future and the time and circumstances that will bring new opportunities for your service to the country. When we last spoke several months ago about your future plans you said "keep your powder dry." I intend to continue to follow that advice.

With sincere appreciation and warmest good wishes.

Dear Howard:

How proud and delighted I was that you accepted your appointment as Chief of Staff. There is no one more qualified, especially at this time that our President needs your leadership experience, your moral judgment and expertise. I am sure that this has been a personal sacrifice on your part, but can only hope that the rewards the nation will reap, will be compensated by personal rewards to you.

How many years has it been, Howard, that we have been so involved in the United States Senate Youth Program...three times you have been Co-Chairman and I don't remember any years that you did not participate as a speaker to the youth of our country, at Senate Youth...until this past year and we missed you.

You may not have had the opportunity to peruse the Silver Anniversary Annual that was distributed this past January, but I do hope you enjoy it. It is difficult to believe that Senate Youth is 25 years old. You are well represented throughout the Annual, as you should be, being such an integral part of the Program.

I send my best wishes and prayers for your efforts to restore integrity and stability to this administration and I know that I am only one in the list of millions who have responded to you in respect to this challenge you have undertaken. You have my utmost confidence and support.

Please give my love and best wishes to Joy.
